Questions

1. You mentioned Cash Flow. Is there a metric used in supply chain to calculate cash flow?

2. Greg mentioned a duration of 10-15 weeks in terms of what – to-do-now. Is there a “Wave” that we’ll see and if so, can you profile some of those risk disruption stages?

3. Greg mentioned risk alert solutions. Can you mention one or two?
Questions

4. Cyber Security has seemingly given way to Supply Chain disruptions. Should we be any less concerned about Cyber Security? How do we balance cyber threats with the threats of bankrupt businesses?

5. The Cybersecurity Maturity Model Certification project continues to move forward, says DoD. Will the current chaos in the marketplace relegate this to the background or must we find a way to deal with both?

6. Where should we prioritize our efforts, managing supply side or demand side challenges?”
Questions

7. How do you anticipate supply chains might change in the post-coronavirus world?

8. The Federal Acquisition Regulations dictate the acquisition process on doing business with the Federal Government. How might the FAR be impacted considering we may have a potentially significant re-setting of the business landscape, especially for small and medium businesses who may be dramatically affected?
