

Strategic Breakout Session

- Are current supply chain risk management efforts sufficient to address the risks?
- If not, where do we need to focus? Where do you feel you need help? What do you think is not being addressed?
- Is there a need for a governance structure? Is there a need for a joint governance structure? If so, at what level does it reside?
- How do we prioritize what supply chain risk elements are important to security?
- How do we create the balance of risk management between industry and government?
- How do we enable alignment amongst stakeholders (joint, interagency)?
- How do we foster strategic linkage between logistics and intelligence communities?
