The NDIA has a policy of strict compliance with federal and state antitrust laws. The antitrust laws prohibit competitors from engaging in actions that could result in an unreasonable restraint of trade. Consequently, NDIA members must avoid discussing certain topics when they are together at formal association membership, board, committee, and other meetings and in informal contacts with other industry members: prices, fees, rates, profit margins, or other terms or conditions of sale (including allowances, credit terms, and warranties); allocation of markets or customers or division of territories; or refusals to deal with or boycotts of suppliers, customers or other third parties, or topics that may lead participants not to deal with a particular supplier, customer or third party.

WHO WE ARE

The National Defense Industrial Association is the trusted leader in defense and national security associations. As a 501(c)(3) corporate and individual membership association, NDIA engages thoughtful and innovative leaders to exchange ideas, information, and capabilities that lead to the development of the best policies, practices, products, and technologies to ensure the safety and security of our nation. NDIA's membership embodies the full spectrum of corporate, government, academic, and individual stakeholders who form a vigorous, responsive, and collaborative community in support of defense and national security. NDIA is proud to celebrate 100 years in support of our warfighters and national security. The technology used by today's modern warfighter was unimaginable 100 years ago. In 1919, BG Benedict Crowell's vision of a collaborative team working at the intersection of science, industry, government and defense began what was to become the National Defense Industrial Association. For the past century, NDIA and its predecessor organizations have been at the heart of the mission by dedicating their time, expertise and energy to ensuring our warfighters have the best training, equipment and support. The Australian Industry & Defence Network (AIDN) is the national peak body supporting SME suppliers to Defence and Security related customers via advocacy, trusted partnerships and member services. Through the AIDN Chapters in all states and territories of Australia, we work with SMEs to develop their sovereign organisational capacity and capability to reliably deliver goods and services that are fit for purpose and value for money, in support of Australian Defence Forces and security personnel.

AIDN Chapters facilitate defence and industry engagements (including Primes) relevant to current and proposed Defence and Security projects; generate collaborative partnerships and industry-sector alliances; provide supply chain development and diversification programs; research and promulgate market intelligence; support business missions and trade shows; contribute to workforce planning; and links industry with federal and state/territory government programs in skills training, innovation, technology and asset development, specialisation, and export readiness.
